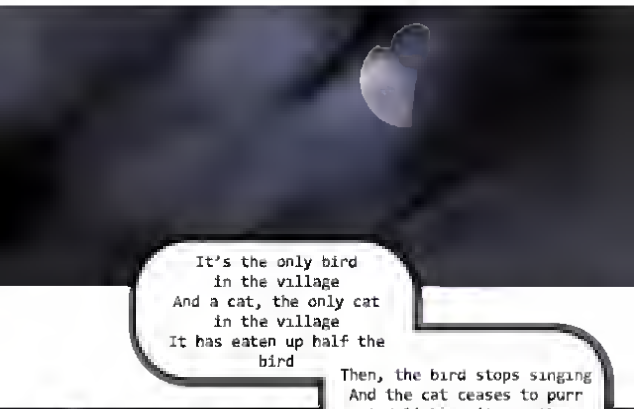
A quiet desolate village hears
The singing of a hurting bird



It's the only bird
in the village
And a cat, the only cat
in the village
It has eaten up half the bird

Then, the bird stops singing
And the cat ceases to purr
And licking its mouth.

The villagers does a grand funeral
And the cat which is invited
Marches behind the small casket
Where remnants of the dead
bird are spread

And which is carried by a small girl
Who cries and cries and cries

"If I knew this would bring you this much pain"
Says the cat,
"I would've eaten all of it"
And then I would've told you
That I saw it fly away

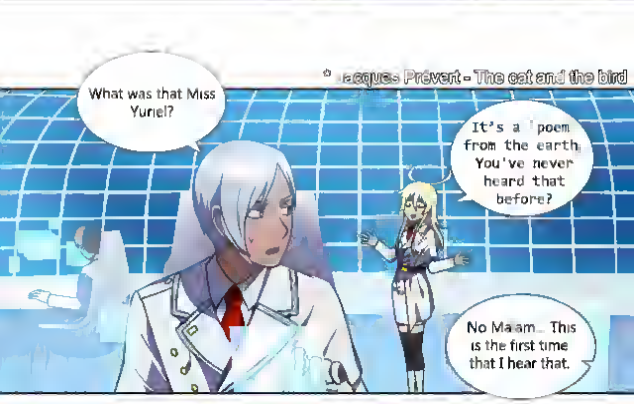
Fly away until the end of the earth
There where it's so far
That no one ever comes back.

This way you would have less grief.
Just some sadness and regrets..

Thunder...

Thunder
-bolt

And this is why you never leave anything halfway done!.



* Jacques Prévert - The cat and the bird
What was that Miss Yuriel?
It's a poem from the earth. You've never heard that before?
No Ma'am... This is the first time that I hear that.

And Sandalphon has already made contact with the black list?
Yes. They've made contact right now
I see...

That girl is very dangerous ... It would be very beneficial for us if she die in silence...
But Miguel commissioned Sandalphon to this mission ... What the hell is he thinking?!
Ah...
But I warned him many times, so I don't think that he'll commit any prematurely act.

Miss Yuriel...
That's...!
